

Games Kids Play

Gretchen Aerni

US Connections Chair/KS State Coordinator, smgks@mac.com

The following games can be adapted for non-verbal play:

Guess Who?

(there are many different versions like Disney princess and so on)

Make index cards with pre-written characteristics or photos of characteristics (black hair, moustache, hat, etc.)-that is how SM kids can “ask” the questions.

Bingo

Let them use a signal if they get bingo.

Wiz Kidz (Discovery Toys)

Have kids write, draw or whisper the answers.

Hangman

Bag Ball (Fundex Games)

Keep score on a chalkboard, dry erase board or piece of paper

Rush Hour, Mastermind, Who, What, Where Jr. Drawing Game, Trouble

Battleship

Use number/letter squares to ask questions or write guesses.

For class parties or birthday parties—

Musical chairs, Bingo, Simon Says (with adult or kid Simon), Doggie, Doggie, Where’s Your

Bone? “Relay races”, Ex: unwrap chocolate kiss or mini candy bar with oven mitts, pass it along until each team member takes a turn ,